The Ashurian

Volume X111

1928

Where there is no vision, the people perish . . . Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest . . . Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Proverbs 29:18, John 4:35, Mark 16:15.

Edited and Published by the Students of Asbury College
Wilmore, Kentucky

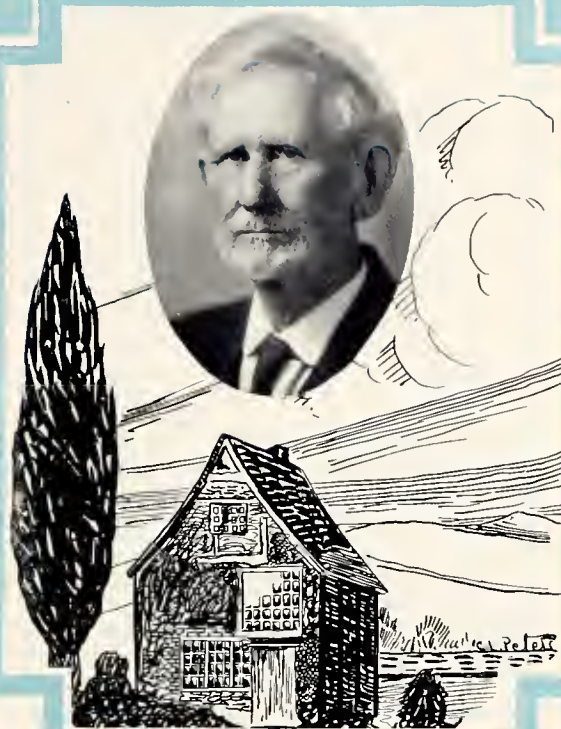

The doctrine of heart Purity as taught by John Wesley is in Asbury the high standard of Christian experience and life

. Foreword .

The earnest endeavor of the staff of 1928 has been to portray the ideals, the progress, and the vision of Asbury. May the pages of this volume both summon pleasant memories in years to come, and inspire greater zeal for the Master's work

I W. Hughes
Let God have his way ^{with} you can't fail.
Let the Lord have his way ^{with} you can't but fail

In the year of 1890, realizing the need of a college where first things might be placed first, John Wesley Hughes was led to found Asbury College

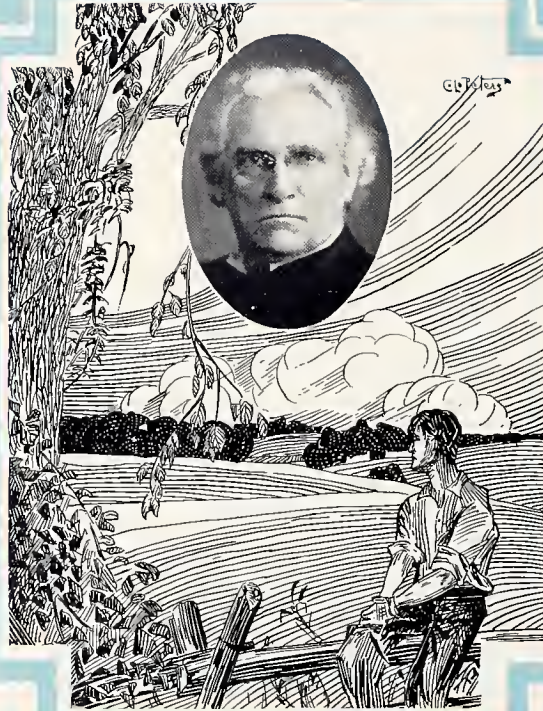

. Dedication .

To our beloved Alma Mater, made possible by the prayers and sacrifices of God's saints; fostered and developed educationally and spiritually through the tireless efforts and far sighted leadership of great executives; represented in the walks of life the world over by consecrated alumni, this volume of the

Asburian

is respectfully dedicated

H. C. Morrison

For fifteen years under the supervision of Henry Clay Morrison, who is now president of Asbury Theological Seminary, Asbury College grew and prospered until it became one of the foremost holiness institutions in America

. Progress .

As the years have passed since its humble beginning the improvements in working facilities and the growth of both faculty and student body have been remarkable. Ten commodious brick structures have supplanted the original small frame building, the faculty has expanded from four to forty members, and the student enrollment has increased until, including all departments, it now numbers eight hundred fifty

Due to the efforts of President Lewis Robeson Akers, Asbury is recognized today as a growing institution where high educational attainment is enhanced by an unwavering devotion to the loftiest ideals of Christian living

. Vision .

Believing that there is no clash between spiritual fervor and intellectual excellency, the aim of Asbury College is to send forth young men and women, who, with hearts aglow and minds alert, will be able to cope with the problems of the age

College

Adminis- tration

Crowded into the seemingly all too brief period of four college years are most of those forces which shape a man's destiny, which measure his future worth to himself and to his fellows. To guide the student into an abundant life is the chief purpose of the college, its raison d'être. And upon the professors of a college the fulfillment of this purpose largely depends.

The faculty of Asbury College is composed of men and women of far-reaching vision and of large sympathies. They feel the burden of the world's great need of a Redeemer, and to their students they hold aloft life's noblest challenge, the challenge to serve. They know, and know how to impart the secret of abundant life: "He that loseth his life shall find it," and that he who is greatest of all is the servant of all. They know how to lead "in the way everlasting."

Seniors

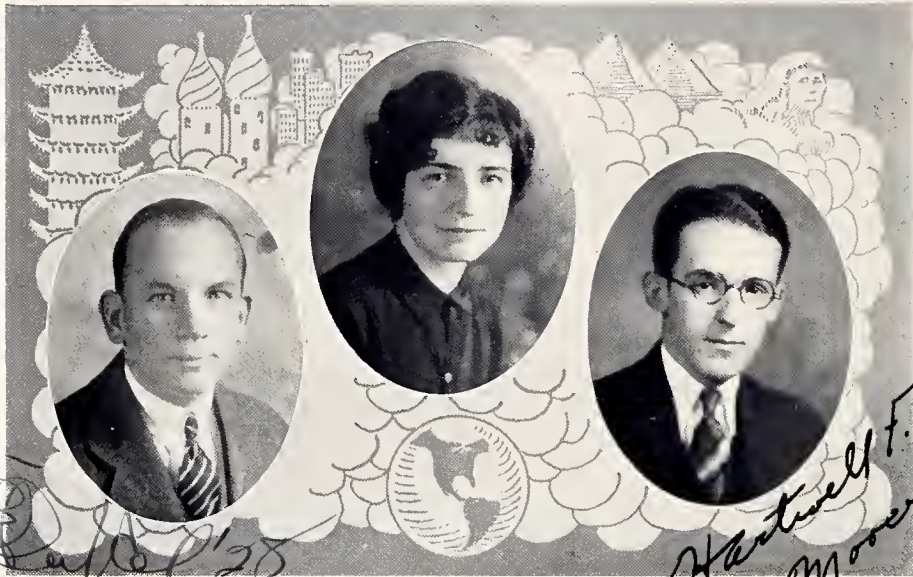

Here we are a group of Seniors,
Boasting not of what we've done;
For we're looking toward the future,
To a life that's just begun.

We've been blessed by Christian teaching;
By association dear;
And our faith has not been shaken;
But has grown to know no fear.

Forth we go, our hearts aflaming
To a world of sin and woe;
Carry'ng One within our bosom
Who can set this world aglow.

Farewell to thee, our Alma Mater,
Thou are dear to every heart;
We shall stand by thy traditions,
Though from thee we're far apart.

Juniors

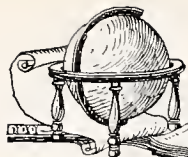

We, the Class of '29, entered Asbury realizing that the great, central purpose of our college career was preparation for life's work. Knowing that our characters are much as clay, which friendships and circumstances largely mold, we have felt the need of a Master Potter's skillful hand; therefore, we have chosen to lay ourselves at the feet of our Lord Jesus Christ that His will may fashion us to His glory.

While here in Asbury College we have been striving to make ourselves true Asburians in spirit and in life; we have sought so to root and ground our faith in Christ that we may stand as unshaken, unwavering beacon lights in a world of darkness and tumult. To this end we have endeavored to find and to experience for ourselves that deep, abiding, confident knowledge of the Truth, which comes alone from "a life hid with Christ in God."

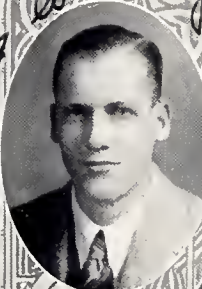

And now, nearly three-fourths of our college days have sped leaving behind them the impress of new knowledge, friends, and best of all the mellowing, ennobling influence of a life lived with God. These past years, too, have witnessed mistakes, shortcomings. Be then our goal in this last remaining year, before we stand on life's threshold, to make every past mistake a stepping-stone to new heights of wisdom and character; to use every opportunity for the development of great and noble personalities, to receive as a parting heritage from dear old Asbury a mastering, impelling desire to take up our cross and follow the Master of Life.

Dear Sir,
 I have truly seen a privilege to have known you.
 your life has been a blessing to me and I pray that it may be a blessing to many other souls.
 your brother in Christ,
 Victor E. Moore

The good ship Asbury paused to take aboard a new crew in the fall of '26. This motley crowd mustered two hundred strong. Placement came next and each "Freshie" found his place in the great lines. Leaders were needed; Paul Root was elected first mate, Jimmie Pritchard, second mate, and Juanita May recorded incidents.

Days passed under the supervision of the upper sailors and the new crew was brought to the first deck to work. With the steward's directions the main deck was scrubbed clean. The first victory was scored and recognition won when the emblem of green and white was flaunted in the girls' victory in basketball.

The crew returned this September to set sail again. The ship has been renovated, and the crew diminished to one hundred and ten; but determination reigns to make this the most profitable year in the ship's history. The crew has a new spiritual outlook, and upper crews look on in approbation. The Sophmores are prepared for a big season on the sea of life. This crew pledges allegiance to the commander of Asbury for aye. Long live the Spirit of '30.

Freshman

About September 13, 1927, some one hundred and ninety high school graduates bade tearful farewells to fond parents and started on their pilgrimage to a little village in Kentucky's bluegrass region. An enthusiastic, lively flock of young people they were, indeed, as starry-eyed and eager they faced the Big Adventure of going away to college. When their trains pulled in to the little Wilmore station they found awaiting them a friendly crowd of older Asbury students. The next few days were filled with a whirlwind of sensations new to the young people. They were made much of in the skillfully planned Freshman Week activities, and soon they felt thoroughly at home. Then school began in real earnest. Soon came the fall revival, and many Freshmen found a new and wonderful relationship with God; now their hearts were in glad accord with Asbury's Christian atmosphere.

Thus the year was well begun, and shortly the Freshmen were a very vital part of Asbury's student body. In religious, scholastic, athletic and social activities they entered with such lively interest and energy that things moved. With such youthful eagerness, joy of living, bubbling enthusiasm and vigor, what but success?

Special Departments

Conservatory of Music

"Music is the universal language of mankind."

—LONGFELLOW.

The well educated person is one who has a knowledge of other things besides those branches generally acknowledged as essential. Among these "other things" music occupies a lofty place; for there is in every personality a something that demands it.

Only the things which lead to a higher and nobler plane of thought are worth while; and nothing can do this more readily than music. Thus our music department has done its part in creating an atmosphere in Ashury College that is conducive to higher thoughts and actions.

The instructors, through their beautiful Christian characters, seek to create a spiritual atmosphere about their pupils. They are loyal to the school and to the principles for which it stands, and are intensely interested in their work. Thus the department is prospering under their instruction.

*"Music religion's heat inspires,
It wakes the soul, and lifts it high
And wings it with sublime desires,
And fits it to bespeak the Deity."*

Conservatory of Music

The Conservatory of Music has perhaps at no time in its previous history had such a bright outlook as at the present. Perhaps this may be attributed to the lofty ideals and aims of the conservatory, the precipitation of which is the production of thoroughly trained, highly motivated musicians.

Since a thorough foundation is essential to such production, special attention is given to the formative work in primary and preparatory grades.

Courses in piano, violin, and voice are so arranged as to enable students to receive a teacher's certificate, diploma, and degree of bachelor of music. Frequent student recitals are given, which develop interest and create wholesome competition among the pupils. New pianos in studios and practice rooms are an added impetus.

Nina Jeanne Ridgell, director of the conservatory, who has studied under world artists, and who keeps abreast with the rapidly moving times, has as her assistants highly trained, efficient teachers, including Christine Conrad and Decima Lowry, piano department; Suzanne Schulze and Evangeline P. Adams, voice department; Albert Smith, violin department, and Emma Lott, theoretical department.

Men's Glee Club

The Asbury College Men's Glee Club was organized for the purpose of cultivating and developing an appreciation for the highest type of sacred and secular music. It is our aim to inspire those for whom we sing in temporal and spiritual things by our carefully selected repertoire and supreme technique in performance. We believe we can "say it with music."

Asbury College Orchestra

Among the musical organizations of Asbury the orchestra, by popular acclamation, has preeminently won honors in the first rank. Under the baton of Professor Smith, the orchestra has gained a distinction of merit that is greater than that of any of the previous years. Its personnel comprises the highest talent obtainable from the student body. The string and wood wind sections are superior to those of the past. Such compositions as William Tell, Overture to Tannhauser, Overture to Oberon, Unfinished Symphony in B Minor, and numerous other compositions of equal quality will give one an idea of the organization and its ability to present great masterpieces. Professor Smith, the conductor, is an accomplished musician and composer, as well as director of the orchestra.

The College Band

Among the organizations of Asbury College an exhibition of some of the best talent is found in the College Band. This year, under the leadership of its new director, Mr. Victor E. Moore, it has shown the most marked development and progress in its history.

It is not only an organization of worth to the college in the way of advertisement, but because of the efficiency of its well-trained director it is a source of beneficial instruction in the way of the development of the talent of its members.

From time to time it has given inspirational programs, both of a classical and a religious nature. One of its most commendable features is the class of music rendered, including selections from Sousa's Compositions and Classical Opera.

College of Expression

The School of Expression of Asbury College is one of the oldest special departments connected with the college. Since its inception, the head of the department, Miss Daisy Dean Gray, has ever sought to accomplish a great purpose. This brings us to a statement of the purpose of this special school.

A definite need made this department a requisite to the curriculum of the college. A training of ministerial students demands not only doctrinization and theoretical information, but also the development of the powers of oratory. The work of the School of Expression has been to train students in the dignified and important form of human expression. Since conviction must exist behind all true oratory, training in this field of human endeavor makes conviction a prerequisite. "The salient characteristic of oratory is its directness of purpose. The genuine spirit of oratory, as related to vocal expression, depends upon the realization of the purposes possible to a human being, and of the means by which he can influence his fellow men; and the realtion of all these to their right expression through the voice."

The School of Expression has further been of beneficial service in that it has given a simple, aesthetic touch to campus activities, and in that the instructors, through their personal influence, have contributed greatly to the well-being of each life with which they have come in contact.

As a student body we register a sincere appreciation for Miss Daisy Dean Gray and Miss Mary Corley, our instructors.

*"Touched by a light that hath no name,

Aloft on sky and mountain wall

Some one has well said, "You see beauty where you have learned to look for it." A most valuable training is the ability to find beauty in common things with an open and enlightened mind.

The purpose of the instructor in this department is to build a foundation in art that will compare favorably with that of the best schools of the country. However, here the students have the opportunity of developing their talents surrounded by the religious atmosphere which Asbury creates.

The student who wishes to make art a serious study finds every advantage here, whether it be in the painting of canvases, in the bright tints of water colors, or in the delicate shades of pastel. If his talent lies along the lines of landscape gardening, architecture, interior decorating, or the arts and crafts, he is properly directed.

The lure of the rugged cliffs, the subtle windings of the Kentucky and Dix rivers, the historic scenes of brave days when Daniel Boone roved through the wilderness, furnish ample inspiration for pen and brush.

The Art Class is organized into a congenial club whose members take occasional excursions to nearby places of interest. The objective of these Christian students is service for others in life for Him who is their Master Artist.

Home Economics

There are innumerable fields open to women today. The professional world is widening its doors, enlarging its borders and bidding woman enter; she is entering and is given valuable service.

Woman, however, has one vast field which is exclusively her own, the profession of home making. This, as some one has said, is the biggest job in the world; all other occupations must take a lower place, for the wheels of life would stop turning if home making were set aside.

It is the privilege of every woman to be trained in a skilled occupation. She needs this to enable her to take her place among the workers of the world. But a woman will never find a work so freighted with dignity, beauty, and joy as is the profession of home making. We read in the thirty-first chapter of Proverbs a description of the true home maker, culminating in the latter part of the thirty-ninth verse, "But thou excellest them all." Home making is a beautiful as well as an interesting art.

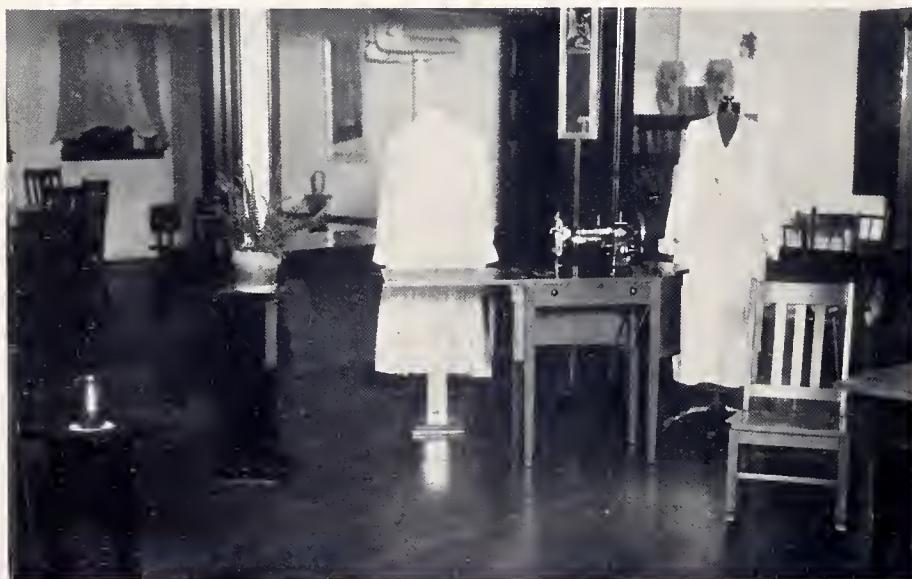

At Asbury College we are endeavoring to give the fundamental principles of home making and home management, as well as to prepare students for teaching. The work is as essential to the prospective home maker as it is to the teacher.

Our aim and desire is to so teach and train, that those who go out from this department may go with a vision for service, as "unto the Lord."

The Kitchen

The kitchen, with its related departments, comprises one of Asbury's most attractive features. The culinary system, consisting of the kitchen, dining room, bakery, butcher shop and vegetable department, is furnished throughout with the most modern equipment obtainable; since all cooking is done by steam and electricity, the pestiferous smoke, so characteristic of a cooking establishment, is reduced to the minimum.

The galvanized steel tables and shelves, together with all other articles of equipment, are elevated about ten inches from the concrete floor to facilitate the oft-repeated cleansing processes. In fact, every phase of system and administration contribute to that essential factor known as sanitation.

The work is carried on through the various departments by approximately one hundred fifty students. The activities of each department are supervised by a captain. This one is in turn responsible to Chef Gammage, a man well-trained in his art and capable of tactfully imparting his knowledge to others. To his versatility and geniality may largely be attributed the realization of the kitchen's three-fold aim of System, Sanitation, and Spirituality.

May the Lord be thy strength, trust, salvation and thy redemption always.
Just one of the kitchen crew

Asbury Theological Seminary

With the present specialized status of education, it is next to an impossibility to get an adequate preparation for preaching the gospel out of any college curriculum in the country. In the days of Harvard's early history, it was not so, for among the decreed purposes of that early organization there was expressed a dread to leave an illiterate lie in the dust. Harvard's early aim was to make preachers. Where in the world is there a college now so motivated? Yes, there is one. It is Asbury College. There may be a few others, but they are scarce. So, if preachers are made, if prophets are encouraged and inspired, the college of today does not and will not satisfy this demand; this is the good and sufficient reason for the theological seminary. The preacher should be as well prepared technically for his task as should the physician for his task or the lawyer for his task. Young men choosing these two professions do not pretend to get a satisfactory training for these responsibilities out of the ordinary college curriculum. They pass on to the professional school. Should men following these professions be more highly trained and efficiently prepared for their task than the prophet of the Lord, whose ministry is as immortal as the souls of men? No, by no means, no! Let Asbury Theological Seminary give you a good training for preaching the gospel.

THEOLOGICAL STUDENTS

Hebrew Students

Under the excellent instruction of Dr. W. D. Akers, the Hebrew classes have gained in numbers and a high level of interest has been maintained. The second year students, three who took beginning Hebrew here, with one added from Princeton, have been reaping the benefits of all the hard labor of last year; they have been following with interest the deliverance of the Israelites from Egypt. The beginning Hebrew children are still in the fiery furnace of unpronounceable laryngeals, elusive vocabularies, of similar letters and dissimilar conjugations. They hope to emerge, however, without even the smell of fire upon them.

Roy GRIFFIN — Greek, Rom. 10:12.

Greek

"I call that man experienced whose mind is strengthened by knowledge as the hands are hardened by labor."—Cicero.

"The great things of poetry and eloquence have been done by men who cultivated the mighty exemplars of Athenian genius with daily and nightly devotion."—Lord Broughman.

"No language can be called 'dead' which has immortal literature in it."—James Russell Lowell.

"Let no one be afraid of the name 'dead' language. No language is dead which perfectly conveys thoughts that are alive and are as full of energy now as they ever were. An idea or a feeling grandly expressed, lives forever, and gives immortality to the words that enshrine it."—Viscount Bryce.

"For the mastery of our own tongue there is no expedient so fruitful as translating out of another; how much more when that other is a language at once so precise and so flexible as the Greek."—James Russell Lowell.

"Theology is a science and the mother of all sciences; and, like her daughters, theology derives her terminology almost wholly from the Greek."—Doremus A. Hayes.

The importance of the Greek language may be effectively shown in but thirty-two pages from Plato, which contain 178 Greek words used 1728 times, and which have 2450 English derivatives.

Organizations

The Student-Faculty Council

The Student-Faculty Council was instituted in the spring term of '27, having as its purpose a greater unification of the school, through vital contact with college problems. In facing these problems the council endeavors to crystallize and promote the most desirable phase of undergraduate opinion.

The council consists of four faculty members appointed yearly by the college president, and seven students from the various classes, chosen by a faculty nominating committee and the student body. In becoming a member, responsibility as well as privilege is involved, and spirituality as well as mental ability is required. During this school year the council has fulfilled its purpose, and well represented Ashburian ideals and standards.

The Life Service Department

The purpose of the Life Service Department of Asbury College is to aid young people in securing an education under Christian influences.

This department receives funds from the friends of Asbury College scattered abroad throughout the earth, and these funds are placed in what is known as the Self-Perpetuating Student Aid Loan Fund. As such donations are received, the money is loaned to worthy young people for the purpose of defraying their educational expenses in Asbury College.

No interest is charged on these loans while the students are in the institution. When they have been graduated, or for other reasons have left Asbury College, they pay interest on the notes at the rate of 5 per cent until fully paid. The notes are expected to be paid at the rate of 20 per cent the first year, 30 per cent the second, and 50 per cent the third. As this money is returned to the fund, it is again loaned to other deserving students, and thus it perpetuates itself through the years.

Although this department has been organized for only four years, yet during this short period it has helped scores of young people to secure an education, some of whom could perhaps never otherwise have attended college.

Asbury Alumni Association

The chief means of communication between the graduates of Asbury College after they leave their Alma Mater is the Alumni Association. This organization, augmented each year by a generous addition to its numbers, meets during commencement week to formulate plans for the coming year and to keep in touch with the affairs of the College.

It has been a source of gratification to see the interest displayed by the Alumni Association in the various concerns of the College. The endowment fund began by the Class of '26 and taken over by the Alumni Association, is progressing satisfactorily, and it is expected that much good will be derived from this effort on the part of the Association.

It is hoped that the ties that bind the alumni to Asbury may grow stronger with the passing of the years, and that from this peculiar institution there may be constantly recruited into the ranks of the Association groups of peculiar people who shall help to bear the banner of full salvation to a lost world, and be a blessing in the sight of God.

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATORS

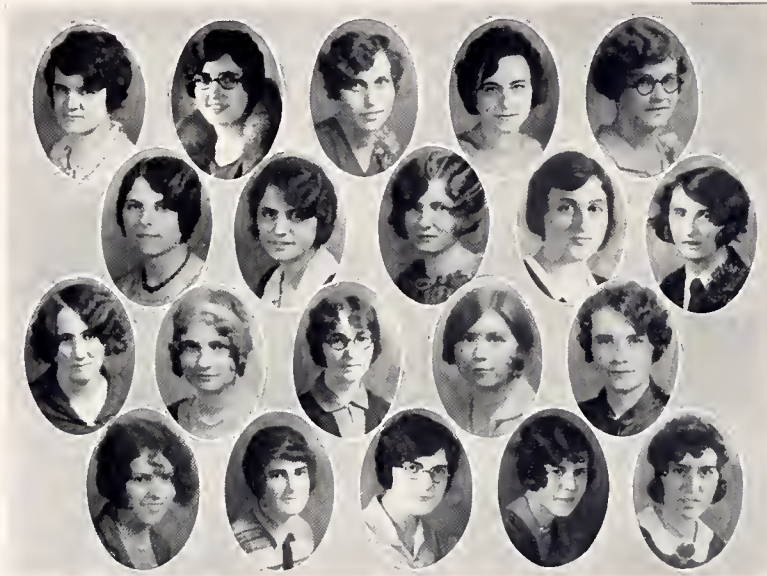

Forensics in Asbury

Such activities as public speaking and debating should and do have high consideration in Asbury College. For in the years ahead no body of people will have greater need to speak clearly and persuasively than those who seek to uphold the Wesleyan doctrines of regeneration and entire sanctification. To the end, then, of developing just such ability is the forensic work directed. The years past have built up an enviable record of contacts with the best debaters of the state and nation; this year we expect to continue that record. Such schools as Northwestern and Florida State University, as well as schools from Texas, Nebraska, Tennessee, and our own state will be debated. The policy, in brief, will be the training of the greatest number consistent with a proper regard for our standing with other schools.

FACULTY ADVISERS

COACH Y. D. WESTERFIELD PROFESSOR J. B. KENYON

Asbury College does not provide for intercollegiate athletics. An intercollegiate program places the emphasis upon the over-training of a few strong and vigorous students and at the same time neglects the great mass of students who need physical training most.

There is provided, instead, a program of intramural contests that includes the physical training of every student. The games are played between the classes and other organizations of the college. This gives to the training program a wholesome zest and interest. It avoids the expense and demoralization of college life too often attendant upon intercollegiate contests.

Senior Basketball Team

COLBY (Guard), "BILL"

"Bill" plays a hard and aggressive brand of basketball. He is fast and covers the floor in an admirable fashion.

WILEY (Forward)

Wiley is a tower of strength, and his cool, deliberate style of playing adds much to the spirit of the team. He follows up many of the unsuccessful shots of his teammates, and converts them into points.

CAPTAIN GUY (Center), JOHN

John seems to realize his great stature, and has made his long form come in for every bit of its worth. Almost able to reach the basket from the floor, he is uncanny in his shots from under the basket.

ELSON (Forward), ED

Ed is a very good utility man. He fights hard all the time, and it is very obvious that he is at all times in the midst of the fray.

HAMILTON (Guard), "HAM"

"Ham" is a good defensive man, and plays the floor like a veteran. He is one of the main cogs of the senior scoring machine, a regular "terror" on defense.

HETTINGER (Forward), HOWARD

Although this is "Het's" first year on the senior team, his services should prove to be a valuable asset.

JOHNSON (Guard), RAY

He fights all the time, and seems an almost impassable barrier to his opponents.

STOREY (Forward), R. K.

He gets over the floor with agility and ease. His speed makes it difficult for an opposing guard to cover him with any degree of certainty. He is also an excellent pivot man.

Junior Basketball Team

CAPTAIN GLASS (Forward), "BOONE"

Dan is a fast and elusive dribbler, an accurate passer, and has an uncanny eye for the bucket. Boone is always "fighting for the glory of the team."

BURKHOLDER (Guard), BURK

Burk has an eagle eye for the netting and, given a fraction of a second to rehabilitate himself, can be depended upon to send the leather globule swishing through the hoop.

POTTER (Center), PUDDER

He is a steady player, a true passer, his shooting accurate. Pudder is always there with a smile, willing and ready to play.

PURDY (Forward), RALPH

A man who, when called upon, displays good passing, and his offensive work is good in general. A calm, modest, hard-fighting player.

PETTICORD (Forward), PETTY

Petty plays a brilliant brand of ball. Without a peer in dribbling, and a dead shot from any angle, his worth can hardly be estimated.

MOORE (Guard), SLIM

When it comes to keeping the opponents' score down, you can always figure that "Slim" has lived up to his name.

LOVEJOY (Guard), JOY

He has been called on many times during the past season, and each time he has performed in a pleasing manner.

REDFERN (Guard), RUSTY

Time and again he has demonstrated his value to the team, and without him many a rough spot could not have been traversed.

*Hope our friends mean as much to you
as it does to me*

Sophomore Basketball Team

JONES (Utility), Doc

A tall lad usually assigned to the position of center. He and his teammates use the aerial method of attack, baffling their opponents. Doc. also hits the "hoop" when points are needed.

CAPTAIN WHITE (Forward), GEORGE

White, the elongated blond, better known as George, has proved his worth as a basketball player more than once by his scintillating speed in dribbling the ball. He is a most colorful player.

ARNOLD (Guard), C. L.

He is a fast man, and is capable of doing very close guarding. Though this is his first year with the "Sophs," we find in him the making of a good guard.

DURBIN (Center), EDISON

On the account of height he can spring the ball from under the opponents' basket. He is a valuable man, and fights till the last minute of the game.

THOMAS (Forward), DALE

Thomas has played in several games and has made a good showing. He passes well, and plays a consistent game.

TUCKER (Guard), "TUCK"

He plays stationary guard well. He seems to know by instinct what the man with the ball is going to do, so he immediately tries to beset him and keep him from accomplishing his purpose.

REED (Forward), HIRAM

Somewhat handicapped by his small stature, his play does not seem to suffer from it. He is fast and always moving. His speed and agility on the floor are other assets.

SHARP (Forward), LUTHER

Sharp is a new-comer, but he is a hard and consistent worker. He has the genuine "bulldog" spirit, and is a valuable worker. His playing is very commendable.

Freshman Basketball Team

LIGHTFOOT (Guard), HARRY

Harry is a guard of unusual ability. He sticks to his forward with leech-like tenacity. He is indeed a good forward who can break away from him for a shot. With such requisites he should be able to blaze his way to glory during the remaining years at Ashbury.

EDWARDS (Forward), FRANKLIN

He is not only gifted in the art of dribbling and passing, but is a good basketeer. His tireless effort, determination and optimism have frequently instilled within the team a new spirit of "hope" when they were lagging.

CAPTAIN EDWARDS (Guard), ARTHUR

The long and short of it is that he knows basketball; he displays his wares on the floor. His prowess is not only confined to guard, but he is also very good at any position.

ENSLOW (Guard), RUSSEL

He has shown great flashes of speed in the games in which he has played. He is a good shot, and should be developed into a good player in his remaining years at Ashbury.

EWING (Guard), JOHN

Although he does not display all the earmarks of a cage artist, with three years remaining he should be able to compete for a place on the first squad.

GWYN (Center), "CHICKEN"

He plays the floor well, offensively and defensively; his passing is accurate, and his shots have been reduced to science. Many a game might have had a different outcome had it not been for the consistent and dependable "Chicken."

NOBLIN (Forward), ROLAND

Although a little man, he fits nicely into the "Frosh" quintet. He is a veritable whirlwind when it comes to dribbling the ball. He is literally everywhere, mixing in every play, and his contribution toward advancing the ball cannot be over-estimated.

REEP (Forward), FLOYD

Although his profile does not appear on this page, he has a keen eye for the basket, and his floor work is dazzling.

Asbury College Field Activities

The history of the annual field day in Asbury College is almost as old as the institution itself. For years it was the custom for the Marathon aspirants to come out without any previous training to participate in the track events of that day. A great number of these events were held on the old hard limestone highway.

In the last two years there has been marked development in these field activities. A new circular track has been provided; training on the part of the athlete has been instituted, and a greater number of events has been added to the program, with a greater number of competitors for the honors of each event. This development has been accentuated by the desire on the part of those in charge to provide clean, wholesome physical diversion for the constituency of the institution.
